

Hearing protection for a lifetime of listening

Today, the average knowledge worker is exposed to around 20,000 decibels of noise (or 2,500 hours of calls) each year from meetings alone. That's before we cover personal listening time or the daily noise pollution that enters our ears continuously.

With the world getting increasingly louder, the need for reliable products that protect our hearing has never been more urgent. But it's not just our ears that are taking the hit.

BEYOND HEARING HEALTH

Excessive sound exposure has been shown to have a huge impact on not only our hearing health, but our cognitive health too – with studies suggesting a link between good hearing health and reduced risk of developing serious cognitive illnesses later in life.

So, when we care for our hearing, we're also taking steps to safeguard our mental wellbeing – now and in the future.

PRODUCTS BUILT TO PROTECT

We draw on 150 years of expertise and our medical-grade hearing aid brand, ReSound, to ensure that every single one of our audio products is engineered with proven hearing protection.

Some of our advanced hearing technologies include:

Active Noise Cancellation (ANC)

Jabra best-in-class ANC stops unwanted background noise from entering the ear. By filtering out this excess sound, ANC helps to reduce overall sound exposure.

Jabra Peakstop™

Jabra PeakStop™ prevents harmful sound spikes from reaching the ear by keeping sound levels in the safe zone at all times.

Jabra IntelliTone™

Jabra IntelliTone™ ensures the average sound level you're exposed to during your working day is at an optimal point to protect your hearing.

Jabra Safetone™

Jabra SafeTone™ offers PeakStop™ and IntelliTone™ technology combined – ensuring your headset is working to its full potential while keeping sound levels safe.

Jabra Safetone™ also comprises other advanced features such as; Speech Level Normalization, to keep volume on calls consistent throughout your day, and BalancedVoice™ which enhances call clarity, meaning there's no need to increase the volume.

TECHNOLOGY YOU CAN TRUST

Relied upon by over 80% of Fortune 500 companies around the globe, Jabra brings you world-class, credible audio solutions that deliver a superior sound experience while protecting your hearing and cognitive health on every single call. For a lifetime of listening.
